Vision Leak

Is the vision of WWCC clear? Do you know what your part is in the vision? Before we can participate in the vision we must clearly imagine it. In the book of Ezekiel, chapters 40-44, God takes his prophet into the future to show him the temple that God wants built. God showed Ezekiel the actual temple...in detail. Each room is measured and described. When Ezekiel returned to himself, he had a clear picture of the future temple burned into his mind. Do we have the same for God's vision at WWCC?

If not, that's my fault. But please, give me grace and allow me to show you where I believe God is taking this church. Picture a Sunday with our warm, friendly, loving church body, gathered together to worship and hear the Word. Among those familiar faces are people you have not seen before -- or have only talked with briefly. Now imagine the service ends and instead of hurrying out for lunch, your goal is to engage a new face, or follow up with a meaningful conversation from last week. Imagine the conversations after church are about accountability for spiritual disciplines instead of wasted words about the weather. More than friendship, we are making disciples.

To see the vision of this church is to see a room full of disciple-makers. People who love the Lord and want to help others love the Lord with their whole lives...this is discipleship. The Holy Spirit is our breath and discipleship is our life.

As you have noticed, our church is lite a few pews. Changes are taking place in the structure of the church. While this is part of the building vision, it pales in comparison with the spiritual vision of WWCC. The spiritual vision of this church is to be disciple-making disciples, engaged in service to our community, transforming lives with the Love of God. We do this by constantly, relentlessly, unashamedly "Pointing People to Jesus". No matter the cost!

As we move forward, we need to be constantly thinking...how does this or that work to move us toward the vision God has for WWCC? All our preferences get set aside for the glory of the Lord in our communities! Amen!
