SERMON REVIEW DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

These questions are for after the sermon and can be used for Life Group discussion, one-to-one discipleship, or personal reflection and application.

Amos 5 continues to reveal the nature of Israel's coming judgment as well as the reason for it. Even in the pronouncements of his righteous judgment, we also gain a greater glimpse of God's heart for his people. Though the message of what is to come may be sobering, there is still hope to be found for those who are genuinely seeking it.

Discussion Questions

1. Review: What sort of things was God using to call Israel back to himself in 4:6-13? How did Israel respond?
2. What is a lamentation (5:1)? What does it tell us about God that he laments over his people?
3. Where is the hope in this passage for the people who are about to experience God's judgment? What must they do to live?
4. What kind of sins is God calling Israel out for in 5:10-13? What does he call them to do in 5:14-15?
5. In the very last verse of the passage (5:17), it tells us that God is going to pass through their midst. What does this mean for Israel?
6. How is it even made possible that we have the offer to seek the Lord and live? How can this passage be used to explain the nature of the gospel to an unbeliever?
