Conclusion:

*Song of Response

Our God

*Benediction

*As you are able, please stand.

“It is during such trough periods, much more than during the peak periods, that it is growing into the sort of creature He wants it to be. Hence the prayers offered in the state of dryness are those which please Him best.... He cannot “tempt” to virtue as we do to vice. He wants them to learn to walk and must therefore take away His hand; and if only the will to walk is really there He is pleased even with their stumbles. Do not be deceived, Wormwood. Our cause is never more in danger than when a human, no longer desiring, but still intending, to do our Enemy’s will, looks round upon a universe from which every trace of Him seems to have vanished, and asks why he has been forsaken, and still obeys.”

- C. S. Lewis (1898-1963), The Screwtape Letters

“Nothing can be more important for the contemporary church than the recovery of a sense of the transcendence of God and his absolute power as Creator and Lord of history. A chapter such as this will expand our thoughts about God and his power and will save us from attempting to domesticate him. This will have practical effects, reminding us that nothing in heaven or earth could prevent his purposes from being fulfilled. Nothing in the natural world or among the nations could stop him from carrying out his promises. Our faith is often weak, but the God in whom we have faith is strong, and thus we can trust his promises in uncertain times.”

- Bob Fyall, “Isaiah,” ESV Expository Commentary

“Come, my soul, thy suit prepare,
Jesus loves to answer prayer.
He Himself has bid thee pray,
rise and ask without delay.

“Thou art coming to a King,
large petitions with thee bring,
for his grace and pow'r are such,
none can ever ask too much.”

- John Newton (1725-1807),
“Come, My Soul, Thy Suit Prepare”
