Historical Note

The Methodist Church of Cincinnati sent Ludwig Jacoby to St. Louis as a circuit rider in 1841. Upon arrival, he rented an "old, abandoned Presbyterian mission church" on Seventh and Biddle Streets and began holding worship services. With 22 members, Jacoby's church became one of the first German Methodist churches west of the Mississippi. In 1842, the little congregation purchased property on Wash Street, near Eleventh Street, and built their new 32' X 50' church. Five years later, a much larger, brick church building was erected on that site.

In 1873, the congregation built a new church at the corner of Fifteenth and Wash Streets, which became known as the "Cathedral of German Methodism." To provide for other neighborhoods, the church began other branches of Methodist Episcopal churches throughout St. Louis during the last half of the 19th century. The home church on Wash and Fifteenth served as the "mother church" for its branch churches as well as its outreaching missions.

The congregation again relocated in 1905, building a new church at Page and Pendleton. The new Salem Methodist Episcopal Church held revival services in addition to its regular worship. The church offered groups such as the singing Salem Glee Club and the Friendship Club, made up of young women who worked in the city. The women who belonged to Salem's IAM Society provided aid to St. Louis poor and, during WWI, children of Europe.

Yet another new church was built at Kingshighway Boulevard and Cote Brillante Avenue in 1925. The congregation faced losing their church during the Great Depression of the 1930s and dedicated themselves to saving their place of worship. Each organization within the church fund-raised for the "Building Fund" and the "Save the Sanctuary Fund." Even the youth joined the effort by putting on a pageant to "Save Old Salem." Due to the resolve of its members during those hard years, the church prevailed.

In 1958, Salem moved to its current location on the northeast corner of Lindbergh Boulevard and Daniel Boone Expressway (now Hwy 40/I64) in St. Louis County. Salem acquired a second location, The Connection in South St. Louis, in 2016. Now boasting large membership, the thriving, mission-oriented Salem United Methodist Church continues its long heritage as a church home for the people of St. Louis, where all are welcome.
