

Restoring Honor in a Broken World

10 Ways to a Better Life series

by Chris Famisaran

Exodus 20:12

Deuteronomy 5:16

Ephesians 6:1-4

1 Timothy 5:1-8

The fifth commandment reveals God's love and authority in our vertical and horizontal relationships.

“We cannot live faithfully while treating foundational relationships as disposable or insignificant.”

Honor in the fifth commandment is relational and reciprocal, not absolute obedience.

We can find wholeness, peace, and wisdom when we honor our parents and elders.

Reflection: How do you speak about your parents and elders—especially when they're not present?

Challenge: Honor your parents and elders by expressing gratitude to them, and honor them with your word.